

Building Empathy Through Storytelling

Facilitated by Professor Miriam Grill
(Communications & Performing Arts)

The Building Empathy Faculty Learning Community offers educators creative tools to teach compassion and develop strong student leaders. Faculty will learn how to facilitate storytelling exchanges in their classroom using student's personal narratives in relation to specific teaching subjects. This methodology is based on techniques currently used by Narrative4, a nonprofit that works with schools and students worldwide for improving deep listening and empathy. Storytelling exchanges in the classroom result in a deeper connection to the material and a greater culture of inclusivity and connectedness.
